Situated in a prominent and elevated position high above the magnificent golden sands and dramatic cliffs of Mawgan Porth is this generously proportioned and recently refurbished coastal residence designed to take full advantage of the far reaching ocean views. Witness the tide crashing in on the wide expanse of beach below, all from the privacy of this magnificently elevated locale.

Tresaldon can be found on a quiet private lane, brilliantly positioned for easy access to both the beach, the rugged South West coast path and the revered Bedruthan & Scarlet Hotels with their first class spa and recreational facilities.

Once inside, the full height glass doors either end of the open plan social space flood the house with natural light and set the scene. The heart of the house is split level offering a unique layout with both a fantastic sea view and immediate access to the large gardens at the rear. The bespoke spiral staircase is an eye catching feature. The kitchen is sleek, contemporary and fully integrated with a stone work surfaces, eye level oven and microwave, gas hob, fridge/freezer and dishwasher. There is a separate utility room for white goods and even a sunroom at the rear. Additionally, the ground floor incorporates a study, modern family bathroom, integral garage, a twin bedroom and beautiful double bedroom with stylish en-suite shower room, patio doors to a private decked terrace and a wonderful ocean vista. The bespoke spiral staircase ascends to the first floor where one will find two further double bedrooms, another an en-suite shower room and a further shower room which completes the accommodation.

Tresaldon is positioned centrally within a generous plot of approximately 0.23 acres. From the kitchen, slide back the doors to the rear of the house to the large private terrace complete with built in bench seating and BBQ area – perfect for al fresco dining. Steps from the rear terrace lead up to a large enclosed lawn with established hedge boundaries and views of the sea.
